Psychologist, psychiatrist, psychiatric nurse practitioner, psychotherapist, therapist, counselor, etc. What is the difference? What does all of this mean? Which mental health professional may be the best "fit" for which case?

There are many types of mental health professionals, and finding the right one for the case may require some research. Come and learn more from Dr. Randy Heller, PhD, LMFT, LMHC about the various initials, licenses, and designations as well as how they are related to background, education, training, and approaches to treatment.
